

Why and how to invest in Italy. A web conference in Russian.

Edoardo Bonatti

18 maggio 2018

Viterbo, May 17, 2018. Transmitted from the Tuscia region the first web conference in Russian Investing in Italy: the new entry visa and residence permit for investors and tax advantages to illustrate the business community in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Novosibirsk, Ekaterinburg and other important cities, the new opportunities that the law offers to non-European investors interested in investing in Italian companies. Over a hundred Russian entrepreneurs and professionals took part in the event organized by Jusweb, a Viterbo-based company, as part of its Investor Visa Italy service, under the patronage of the Italian-Russian Chamber of Commerce.

Reports, given by Raffaele Miele, director of Investor Visa Italy, Maria Tolmatcheva, a lawyer in Florence, and Massimo Pellecchia, an accountant in Rome, have provided potential investors with all the elements to get to know the requirements and procedures for obtaining the new entry visa. They also addressed the topic of the tax advantages that new residents who will move their fiscal residency will receive. Of particular interest is the intervention of Leonora Barbiani, Secretary-General of the Italian-Russian Chamber of Commerce in Milan, who underlined the role of the Chamber in enhancing relations between the companies of the two countries.

After Russia, the web conferences, on a monthly basis, will arrive in India, in the Gulf countries, in Turkey, in China, in the Americas and in other countries with a propensity to invest in Italy.

The web conference's full recording is already available in Russian.